Where can you go for an out-of-this-world adventure? Here, we present the dreamiest destinations...

THE SIX-STAR ISLAND

It's not hyperbole to call Gladden uber-luxe. For starters, you get the whole island, off the coast of Belize, to yourself. The elegant villa has uninterrupted views of the ocean, white sandy beaches, a pool and two huge bedrooms, should you deign to share. The only interruptions to this sanctuary come when hosts Adam and Annika arrive from a nearby island – a 'privacy meter' lets you know of their arrival, ensuring maximum seclusion. Annika will feed you whenever or wherever you want – from poolside tapas to an elegant supper on the beach using freshly caught fish and vegetables grown on-site. Adam is your man for paddleboarding, snorkelling and scuba diving, plus he'll arrange bespoke speedboat trips. Highlights include Gladden Spit, a haven for whale sharks, and King Lewey's Caye, a nearby pirate-themed island with amazing food and a lively atmosphere. However you choose to spend your time, it's all included.

THE LOWDOWN From £2,242 for two people, per night (gladdenprivateisland.com). Stay for seven nights and the £1,370 private helicopter transfer from Belize City is included.

THE SKI BREAK

Revelstoke – in the Canadian Kootenay Rockies – boasts the longest vertical drop in North America (a leg-burning 1,829m) and 500,000 acres of skiing. There are plenty of slopes suitable for beginners, but you can also book a day's heli-skiing or head off-piste into the mountain's ancient glacial bowls and Alpine meadows. The Bighorn chalet has eight decadent suites, an indoor pool, outdoor spa and three-storey 'great room'. A private chef comes as standard, plus there's a cinema, wellness centre and private chauffeur. You can even hire a private helicopter. Landing on your own helipad, you get six days heli-skiing for £5,300, including training, guides and a gourmet lunch.

THE LOWDOWN Bighorn starts at £38,000 for a week for 16 people including gourmet meals (bighornrevelstoke.com).

Beautiful Bagan is steeped in history

THE TEMPLE EXPERIENCE

Once one of Myanmar's most glorious kingdoms, Bagan was home to over 10,000 temples, pagodas and monasteries built between the 9th and 13th centuries AD.

Today, 2,000 of these historic sites remain and make for awe-inspiring scenic views – their tapering spires stretch out across the vast plain, creating mesmerising silhouettes against the horizon. Some glint golden in the sunshine, while others peek out from beneath the copses of palm and tamarind trees. Most are very well-preserved, having been restored by UNESCO, with many containing intricate frescoes and carvings as well as statues of the Buddha in various sizes. Unlike Cambodia's Angkor Wat, which is now hugely crowded with tourists, Bagan is still relatively free of visitors; step inside the tranquil stupas (Buddhist monuments) and be enveloped by the otherworldly atmosphere. Explore this magical site by foot, bicycle or even horse and cart. Or take to the skies in a hot-air balloon – floating above the temples is a truly unforgettable experience. While you can explore on your own, the government is currently restricting access to some temples, so a tour is recommended.

THE LOWDOWN Ampersand Travel's 11-day 'Balloons over Burma' trip takes you to Bagan as well as Yangon, Mandalay and Inle Lake, from £4,250 per person (ampersandtravel.com). ▶
